

National Surgical Care (NSC) Selects Surgical Notes for EHR Solution

DALLAS, Nov. 8 /PRNewswire/ -- National Surgical Care ("NSC"), a leading owner and operator of surgery centers has selected Surgical Notes VMR Express as its Electronic Health Records (EHR) application. Under the terms of the agreement, NSC will purchase VMR Express for all its centers.

Jeff Blankinship, CEO of Surgical Notes remarked, "We are very excited about NSC choosing our EHR solution. The selection of VMR Express by NSC is a testament to our ever growing role in the electronic medical records arena. Surgical Notes development teams are constantly working on creative ways to enhance operations through technology deployment and we are very happy to work closely with progressive companies like NSC."

Surgical Notes was selected based on its strong reputation in the marketplace and VMR Express functionality. "As a premier operator of outpatient surgery centers in the United States, NSC is constantly striving to promote efficiencies and improve patient care," explained Richard Pence, President and Chief Operating Officer of NSC. "We turned to Surgical Notes VMR Express for our EHR solution for process improvement, ease of use, and straightforward implementation for our physicians. It's truly superior technology."

A keystone of the Surgical Notes and NSC relationship is the VMR Express application, which is directly integrated with many leading practice management systems and allows centers to more effectively print chart packs while also offering a full scanning solution. "Integrating VMR Express with the practice management systems improves the clinical quality of care, ensures complete data integrity, and reduces administrative waste," said Blankinship. "In addition, by coupling Surgical Notes transcription with VMR Express the facilities revenue cycle management is greatly improved."
